KeyMacro is a new keyboard utility for Windows. It detects when you are interacting with your keyboard and keeps its eyes on the keys you press. If you press a key, it will make sure it only stays pressed for a few seconds and then releases, preventing any undesired keystrokes. KeyMacro won't react to anything else on your screen, like a mouse, or the mouse pointer. It may take up some CPU and memory, but it should not cause any issues. Why is it useful? KeyMacro monitors whether you are inputting a keystroke on your keyboard or are scrolling the mouse wheel or using your mouse. It is a useful tool to prevent accidental keystrokes. Keyboard shortcuts may cause you to make accidental keystrokes or to press the wrong button, which can cause important data to be lost. KeyMacro will not react to any mouse movement or scrolling and will not slow down your computer. KeyMacro installs into your Windows tray, leaving you with plenty of space. You can set the program to automatically start when you boot Windows. How to Use

KeyMacro: Launch KeyMacro from your Windows Start Menu. Click the small button in the bottom right-hand corner of the window. You'll be prompted to press a key. Choose the key you want to prevent accidental keystrokes. You may choose to install a shortcut to the application, in which case it will remain installed on your desktop. If you have an Internet connection, you can use the Web Configurator to choose a new location for the saved Shortcut and to set the time to which you want to prevent the keystrokes. If you don't have an Internet connection, you can choose a location for the Shortcut by using the built-in BackUp Program. If you want to start the application, you can choose to create a shortcut to the program. Theme for Windows Theme for Windows Hi guys, I wanted to share a fantastic theme with you that I created for myself. It's based on the Windows XP theme by Thomas Kehe, but there are a few differences that I've added. The most important one is that I have removed the Glossy Surfaces effect, and have replaced it with the famous Crystal Aqua. Everything else is standard Windows XP - just like the other themes that you have installed - so you won't notice any difference. I have provided a screenshot of my screen so 2edc1e01e8
