Yellow Pages Crawler [Win/Mac] [Updated]

Takes a list of keywords and prompts the user for a desired range of dates. All dates must be in YYYYMMDD format. You may enter a start date and an end date, or just enter a date range. If you just enter a date range, it will use the start date and end date you entered. The dates will be converted to your regional date format automatically. If you enter a range, it will prompt you for each entry in the range. If you enter an invalid date it will fail the Macro, with the error message displayed. If you enter a date outside the range entered (start date is before end date) it will fail the Macro, with the error message displayed. It will prompt the user for a new date. It will run the Macro again, and repeat until you enter a valid date in the range. If you are interested in using this

Easy as 1-2-3, YPC crawler is the most reliable, accurate, and easy-to-use application for business contacts search. Photos: Star Trek Data Up for Auction About the only thing you can say about Data, the holographic "Star Trek" android, is that he's not easy to find. The Smithsonian Institution will put the android in play at a NASA-run auction later this month, starting at $13,500 and ending with a top bid of $55,000. Data is one of only three of the show's "Starship Enterprise" crew figures to be up for auction. The others are Capt. Kirk and Mr. Spock. Both of them are expected to fetch a price in the five-figure range, depending on their level of "collector's wear and tear," said Christie's vice president of sale Phil Reed. Data is the only one who gets put up for auction every year, said a senior Smithsonian official who spoke on the condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to discuss the action. "It's unusual to have that one one year out of 12," he said. The figure was sold in 2004 to the actor who played Data, Brent Spiner, for $35,000, said Paul Morse, a Star Trek expert and owner of Treksampler.com, which covers the action. The auction, which runs Nov. 20 to 23, will be held in New York. The custom-built Data figure stands 20 inches high, 11 inches wide and 10 inches long, and weighs about 4 pounds.

Q: Olympiad Combinatorics problem How many integer solutions (x,y,z) of the equation $x^2 + y^2 + z^2 - xz - xy - yz = -1$, are there? I've managed to find a couple of solutions in the form of $n=k+1$, $k \in \mathbb{N}$, which can be re-written in the form $x=k+2$ or $y=k+2$ or $z=k+2$. Are there any other solutions? I don't know where to go from there. I've tried looking for a solution for the general case, and haven't had much luck. A: An equivalent question would be: how many
