There were a few ways to do a gradient fill in Photoshop. With a few steps, you can easily create your own unique gradient. First, create and create the gradient. What this does is place a color gradient and opacity gradient over the top of your layer. Then, change the top color so that it is a bright and bold color. Change the opacity so that it is only 30%. Next, add a mask to this layer and place the gradient fill on this layer.
It is important to note that the gradient 'applies' the top color to the layer above, and that the opacity applies to the current layer. For instance, let's say you have a task for two layers – yellows and oranges. Let's say you want to create the effect of sunbeams that make a gradient from a bright yellow to white in order to give the illusion that the sun is radiating bright light continuously throughout the day. 933d7f57e6
